What's This All About Anyway???

Stop for just a minute, take a moment to look back on all that you have accomplished up to now. Quite a bit isn't it! Kindergarten, naps, recess; grade school, friends, naps; middle school, friends, love, naps; high school, parties, friends, love; college, parties, naps! It is all sort of one big repeating microcosm. But with all of these accomplishments comes memories, and memories can be one of the most precious things in life. The theme for this book is "This is the Time to Remember." This is the time when your life is going to begin to unfold right before your eyes. Cherish every moment of the time you spend here at Regis, for your time here is limited. This yearbook is a compilation of moments in time here at Regis. Remember them, and take nothing about this time for granted..."This is the time to remember, because it will not last forever. These are the days to hold onto, because we won't although we will want to...." - Billy Joel
Turn the page, and take the time to remember.....

Notes from the Barrio
by David Card

AN OPEN LETTER TO FR. VINCE O'FLAHERTY, S.J.

"What's up Irish man?" I used to startle you with that every morning as I greeted you at breakfast. You used to ask me how anyone could have so much energy so early in the morning. You made me laugh the way you would jump as I entered; I can see you sitting there with your pajamas sticking out from under your winter coat--completely focused on whatever it was that you were eating. I had so much energy because I was so happy to see you. It really felt good when you would tell me over and over, "I'm so glad you're here."

I really don't know where to begin. I'm not sure where to end... and the middle is sort of fuzzy too. Vince, you had such a huge impact on my life. It's hard for me to believe that you are gone, and I'm going to miss you. I'm going to miss you walking through the door with a mouthful of sophistry and arms full of groceries. I'm going to miss your silly blue hat. And I'm going to miss the way you cheerfully wobbled while you inspired me to pray, work, and live for justice. It will be difficult not having your rosy countenance around here--one that would give Saint Nick a run for his money. But you truly had more gifts to bear.

Do you remember when we sat in your room in April? We were talking about the possibility of me becoming House Manager. You told me to reflect and pray on it and call you in a couple of weeks. If it's all right with you, I'd like to make that my prescription for daily life. When we found you Friday morning, you were praying, weren't you? That was your way--I'll miss that too.

I'm doing okay, but occasionally I hear you talking to me and I get so confused. I have never felt this kind of sadness before. After I said goodbye to you for the last time, I walked through our chapel. That's where you said that people had been praying like this as East became West, and West would soon become East again. I missed you when I walked through there. I was driving down 38th Avenue the day after I said goodbye to you, and I missed you. I sat up at 3:00 in the morning and looked at your car parked next to mine, and I missed you.

Marshall misses you too. He's taking it pretty hard. He said that you "went to sleep in Romero Home on Thursday night and woke up in the presence of God." it was so beautiful it hurt.

It was really hard for me to tell my dad...you know he was the one who introduced us. When I was sixteen, I never dreamed that I would have to tell my dad that "my friend died today." I couldn't get the words out, Vince, it was so hard.

If you were looking for a way to bring the "gang" together, this did it. I might have suggested a few other strategies, though. Every time I walk past your room, I look for you. You should be making a list on your computer, writing a letter, or taking a nap. You entered my life ten years ago, and you will never leave. Why did you have to go so soon...I really miss you.

Aerobic boxing, with boxing-style leg and arm work, turns out to be one of the year's hot exercise trends, showing up in workout studios and attracting those who want to work off their aggression by throwing a right and a few jabs.

Besides recycled clothing like license-plate bustiers, bottle-cap jewelry, trash-bag and duct-tape dresses, fashion trends include the schoolgirl look with thigh-highs, and the grunge-turned-beatnik look of long, straight hair and a goatee.

A new survey shows that over 12 million Americans are vegetarians, choosing the no-meat lifestyle because of concern about animal cruelty, cost-efficiency, eco-friendliness and/or improved health and fitness.

The hottest merchandise around is Mighty Morphin Power Rangers, so hot Cabbage Patch dolls pale in comparison. Parents criticize Fox's super-violent TV show, but their kids crave Dragon Daggers, Megazords, and the 4-foot, $230 battery-powered car. "Go, go, Power Rangers!"

A hot new collectible derives from an old household item. Milk caps, known in some regions as pogs, originally capped the bottles left by the milkman but have now gone funky with colorful printed designs and variations that are traded and used in games.

Although most are forced to settle for Oakley wrap-arounds, stylin' kids, like in-line skaters and urban youth, clamor for Arnet's $80 Ravens with the silver-chrome frames.

Led by brash young skate and surf types, two million snowboarders nationwide discover the joy of swooping down slopes on one board instead of two. No hard boots, no poles, no crossed tips, make it easier than skiing. Since their giant frozen wave is a ski hill, snowboarders annoy old-style skiers who want their slopes left undisturbed by shredders.

The designer pets of the year are African pigmy hedgehogs, and some 3,000 find homes with humans. They are gentle, like to be petted, and need a once-a-day feeding of pet food or mealworms. They don't smell and will even eat your roaches.

John Travolta and Samuel L. Jackson star in Pulp Fiction, an "extravagantly demented low-life lalapalooza with outlandish twists." The film's plot revolves around a watch, a briefcase, and a large syringe in a darkly humorous scene which reportedly causes a few audience members with needle-phobia to fall out of their seats in revulsion.

John Candy, the large and lovable star of films Splash, Cool Runnings, Home Alone, and many other family favorites, dies at the age of 43. Whether Candy played jerks, slobbers or loonies, his natural goodness came shining through.

Stop to Remember.....

The Moments In Time....

This is the Time to Remember....It will not last Forever.

Well, that is about it. Once again, a year has come and a year has gone. Some times will be remembered forever, some are better forgotten. Whether these times have changed you or not, had an impact on you or not, keep them with you always. Someday this chapter of your life will come to an end, live it for now and remember it for later. Hopefully this book contains some of the memories you will want to have with you. As this book comes to an end, and so this moment in time comes to an end. There is one final thought to share....In the words of Helveticus,

“...It matters not how straight the gate.....

How charged with punishments the scroll...

I am the master of my fate.....

I am the captain of my soul.”

Take pride in all that you do, take charge and make these years of your life the best ones yet.
